PA Dutch Life & Culture

En Freehlich Nei Yaahr
 In the year that is just past, the heart was sometimes like lead.
 How many tears--- oh, so hot--- in the eyes, God only knows!
 But through all that we are still here--- we go into the New Year, and so,
 Let us grasp new courage. And keep only what was good.
 I wish you in the New Year, more ease than before;
 A long life and health and also much jollity.
 May you be free of cares, happy and yet also serious;
 And may spiritual goodness and blessings come to you all.
 Frank H. Oberholtzer
 And now the old professor wishes you all a Happy New Year, from here out to the barn door.
 Take care,
 The Old Professor

And in the Dutch:
 In dem Yaahr iss verbei waar des ebmols wie blei.
 Wieviel Dreene---ach, so heess--- in de Aage, Gott yuscht weess!
 Darch des all sin mir noch do---Gehn ins neie Yaahy, un so,
 Loss uns fasse frischer Mut, un yuscht halde was waar gut.
 Ich wunsch eich neie Yaahr, mehner Glick ass wie devor;

This poem seems to have been written for the present time! Even tho there have been many tragic events in the world this past year, I trust you-all have had many good times. And are looking forward to a new year and more pleasant times to come. What do you think of his word "jollity"...Is it a "made-up word"? It does fit...We've had a very busy holiday season, which included spending time with lots of relatives and friends, also are having a visit from some Chinese students. I certainly do enjoy hearing from you... Continue to send messages! Jean Markley Keiser, 1133 Carolina Ave., West Chester, PA 19380 bjkeiser@verizon.net.

Here's another New Years' poem from years ago... written by Frank R. Brunner (1835 to1908)
 "It's good to say to the people, I wish you all a good time
 In the New Year that begins today, and I hope no one gets so discouraged
 That he forgets to thank God for that which He has given us;
 For health, wisdom and reason, for all the fruits of the land;
 For rain, sunshine and heat, that we're not hit by lightning;
 So much blessed with health, and protected from strife.
 "We all thank God right nicely and may it always go that way for us.
 We also thank the good people, there are very many at this time,
 Who open up their hands and give poor people many things
 To eat and drink, and also clothes and wood and coal for the cold weather.
 "This I have wished for you all, and hope you all have your desserts,
 And that you work with renewed courage so that it makes you all right happy,
 That we are starting this New Year and that we all thank and pray
 For that which we enjoy through the year and that we never displease God."
 The Old Professor wishes you all a glorious and happy and lucky New Year!
 Take care, The Old Professor

And in the Dutch:
 "Siss gut zu saage zu de Leit, ich wunsch eich all en gudi Zeit
 Im neie Yaahr, wu heit erschteht, un hoff's watt niemand so verleed
 Dass er vergessst zu danke Gott fer des, was Er uns gewwe hot;
 Fer Gsundheit, Weisheit un Verschtand, fer all die Frichde vun dem Land;
 Fer Regge, Sunneschein un Hinz, uns net gedroffe mit dem Blitz;
 So viel Gesegnet mit Gsundheit, un uns behiedet gegge Schreit.
 Mer danke all dem Gott recht sceeh, un winsche, 's mecht uns immer so geh.
 Mer danke aa de gude Leit, es hot sehr viel zu daere Zeit,
 Die ihre Hend alsmol uffmache un gewwe aarme Leit viel Sache
 Zu esse, drinke, un aa Gleeder, un Hols un Kohle fer kalt Wedder.
 Des hawwicht eich nau all gewinscht, un hoff ihr hett all viel Verdienscht,
 Un dass ihr schaffit mit neiem Mut, dass es eich all recht freehe duht,
 Dass mir des neie Yaahr aadreedde, un dass mer all duhn danke un beede
 Fer des, was mir darrich's Yaahr genieesse, un dass mir Gott neimols verdreisse.

The New Year has come! Do you make resolutions? Next week, I'd like to share some information I've read about "The Christmas Truce" which was declared during World War I... Have you heard about this? What do you know about it and what do you think of it? Please let me know... Happy New Year!! Jean Markley Keiser, 1133 Carolina Ave., West Chester, PA 19380 bjkeiser@verizon.net

Clint Bowyer Needs To Be Recognized

By Gerald Hodges/the Racing Reporter

Clint Bowyer, who finished second in the 2012 Chase for the Championship needs to be recognized for his 2012 racing achievements.

In 2011, Boyer managed only one win while driving for Richard Childress. At the end of that season lack of sponsorship ended his seven-year relationship with RCR.

"I really didn't want to leave Richard," said Bowyer. "Things were good, but Richard couldn't get sponsorship lined up. I had a sponsor (5 Hour Energy drink) that was willing to back my team, but what they offered wasn't enough to run a full season at RCR.

"The only thing I could do was hope to find a team that could field a good car and come up with some associate sponsors so we could run the entire year."

Bowyer had won five races while at RCR, and he wanted to be sure he could keep on winning.

Michael Waltrip Racing is the team Bowyer decided on. "After Richard rejected my sponsor's offer, the deal with Michael was made pretty quick," continued Bowyer. "I'd say that within a week we had all agreed on what each party wanted. I didn't know a face I was working with, other than casual conversation. I didn't truly know anybody that was on my race team or in the race shop.

"Everything that Michael, Ty Norris (MWR general manager), and Toyota sold me on quickly became reality, turning our first season together into the best year I've ever had.

"You just hope to land with a good family and a good team. We had good cars each and every week. I'm proud of everybody on the team at MWR. We were there all season long. To be able to see it all come together, to see that all play through, is truly a dream come true."

Bowyer won three races, easily made the Chase and at Homestead, the final event of the season, he finished second to Jeff Gordon. That allowed him to ease past Jimmie Johnson to take second place in the point standings. That was not only his career-best finish, it was the highest ever achieved by a MWR driver.

To compliment Bowyer's achievement, MWR teammate Martin Truex Jr., also made the Chase. He was disappointed that he did not win a race or finish higher than 11th in the standings, but he did qualify for the 10-race "playoff" for the first time since 2007 and the first time with MWR.

MWR's performance in 2012 clearly indicates it is a team on the rise. More than that, it overcame much of the rather shallow opinions most observers had expressed over recent years.

For 2013 the team's task is simple: Gather the momentum and use it to create a better season.

"We exceeded expectations in 2012," Waltrip said. "So you know what you do then? You reset your expectations. Maybe we'll be the champions next year. It certainly wouldn't be unrealistic now. If I had said that coming into this year, you would have thought I was nuttier than you probably already do."

LEGENDARY DRIVER, "HOOKER" HOOD PASSES AWAY
Clarence "Hooker" Hood died Christmas Eve at the age of 86. Known for calling everyone "Cat" or "Dude," Hood won more than 700 races during a 50-year-plus career. In 1954 and '55, he made five starts in NASCAR Grand National [now Sprint Cup] competition.

Upon being inducted into the Sprint Car Hall of Fame in 1999, Hood, who routinely gave his trophies away to those young fans, told an interviewer: "I've had a great life and I wouldn't do anything different except to try and run a little faster and that would be hard to do."

He was revered on the dirt track at Riverside Speedway in West Memphis, where he enjoyed unparalleled success, including winning 20 of 22 feature events in 1966.

"He laid the foundation for auto racing in the Mid-South area," said Stormi Hood-Runkle, Hood's daughter. "And he raced until he was 75 years old."

His career reached a peak in the 1960s. He won the National Dirt Track Championship at Marshall, Mo., in 1967, a year in which he won 57 times in 63 events driving his Chevy-powered super-modified No. 99 car. He followed his outstanding year with 48 victories in 1968.

"He was just real talented," said Pete Walton, a spokesman for the United Sprint Car Series who grew up watching Hood race. "And if a track got rough, he got better. He had a great feel for (handling) a race car on a race track."

Hood was one of the earliest "outlaws," traveling to whichever track paid the most money.

Sports writer Tony Martin had a good relationship with Hood in his early racing years.

"One night I came into Memphis on an airplane," said Martin. "After a bumpy landing the stewardess stuck her head into the cockpit and posed the satirical question, 'Who's driving this thing, Hooker Hood?'"

"Just as Elvis is considered king of the entertainment realm by those whose roots are planted in the Mid-South, Hooker has been elevated to a likewise lofty position by southern racing enthusiasts.

"The "Tennessee Tornado" claimed that in years past, a lot of his fans came to see him get his tail beat. Even though some of his driving skills diminished, and he didn't win as much in his later years, fans still flocked to see him race.

"He never met a stranger and the fans loved him, especially the kids, who may be third generation Hooker Hood fans.

"As a small boy, he developed the name "Hooker" by taking on two neighborhood boys, who were considered to be bullies. Both were older and larger than him, but he whipped both. In doing so, he displayed a respectable left hook, which came into play later in settling scores at races.

"Once he was racing against NASCAR pioneer Lee Petty on the old Daytona Beach Course. A left rear wheel came off and passed him going into the next turn.

"Also like some of the early racing legends, Hooker hauled a little corn whiskey. He also got caught. With reservation, he told the tale; "I was 1957 and as a racer you can get exposed to a lot of stuff."

"Well, I figured I wasn't stealing or anything. I was just buying and selling. Someone would bring the stuff up from the Gulf Coast and either me or my partner would pick it up at the stateline. I was sitting in this gas station and the sheriff walked in and said they had my buddy and not to say anything, because he already had.

"I spent five months as a prisoner-at-large at Maxwell Air Force Base in Montgomery, Alabama, but the worst part of it was every Saturday night I could hear all them race cars going around the Montgomery track. That was hell for me."

He was self-employed most of his life, and managed "to keep the wolf from the door," with his racing endeavors. He did work for a truck line as a driver and dock handler for a few years.

Hooker's first, last, and greatest love was racing. Thanks for all the great memories.
