Barnyard Restaurant Burns to the Ground

The Barnyard Restaurant, located west of Mifflinburg along Route 45, in Lewis Township, was destroyed by a fire on Wednesday, April 3, 2013. The fire was discovered by four employees as they were closing for the night at 8:58 p.m. on Wednesday evening. The employees indicated that the fire began within the ceiling near an exhaust fan in the kitchen/dishwashing area. The fire spread into a void between the old shingled roof and the outside metal roof making suppression efforts of the 50 plus firefighters nearly impossible as the fire could not be easily accessed.

The Barnyard Restaurant is owned by Robin and Troy Harvey for the past five years. They spent two years remodeling the restaurant. At this time it is not known if they will rebuild the restaurant. The restaurant has had different names over the years and part of the front section of the building was originally built in the 1930s.

The following fire departments were present and assisted in battling the fire: The Mifflinburg Fire Department, West End Fire Department, Lewisburg Fire Department, Milton Fire Department, White Deer Fire Department, Middleburg, Fire Department, Penns Creek Fire Department, Pottsgrove Fire Department and Winfield Fire Department.

Firefighters had to use an excavator to access the fire during their suppression attempts causing necessary but significant damage to the fire scene. They remained on the scene until about 2 a.m. The cause of the fire could not be determined through the examination of the physical evidence. The damages are estimated at $1,000,000.

And more dye recipes:

Receipt to Make "Liquit" Blue:

Take one pound of Oil of "Vitril" in an Earthen pot and 2 "ounzes" of "pulvereist" Indigo to it, then "stirr" it right with a wooden stick, then put a 1/2 teaspoon of fine Salt to it and keep stirring all the while, The salt will make it raise like boiling water, if it do not raise you can put a teaspoon full at a time and stir until it settles down again, then put salt again and it will raise again Keep regular stirring and so Keep on till it will raise no more when you put salt in then stir awhile yet and then it is fit for use.

Oil of Vitriol is dangerous when you spott your cloth with it will cot it all in holes and that steam what raises from the pot when you stir it, is not wholesome---do not keep your head over the pot too much

Another Receipt to Make Liquit Blue:

Put one pound of Oil Vitriol in a Black strong bottle, at 2 oz. fine Indigo (pulverize) to it then fill a common iron cooking pot about 3/4 full of cold water then fasten a thin wire to the neck of the "bottle" and hang the bottle in the water in the pot up to its neck and fasten the one end of the wire to a pice of wood which you can lay across the pot to keep the bottle from upsetting in the water, then hang the pot with the water and bottle in it over the fire and boil it moderately for one hour, then take it off set it aside and let it get Cold when cold take the bottle out of it then it is fit for use.

Do not stop the bottle up as long as she is in the water or boiling. after all is done and cold you can stop the bottle up to keep dirt out.

Paint Removal:

Equal parts ammonia and turpentine will remove paint from clothing.

Old Sayings:

"If you repeatedly tickle a baby's feet, the child will stutter when it grows up."

"Don't wash a young boy's face with a dish rag or he will grow up without having whiskers."

This large brick roundhouse stood just north of West Milton. The engines did not actually turn at or in the building, but rather used "The Y" that allowed cars to go west on a track, back up and then change engines. An average of 17-19 passenger trains, in addition to freight trains, were serviced each day at the roundhouse. This close-up is one of several real photo postcards by Stephen B. Conservancy Presentation Explores Limestone Run Stream Restoration

On Sunday, April 14, starting at 1:30 p.m., the Merrill W. Linn Land and Waterways Conservancy will sponsor a Limestone Run Stream Restoration Presentation as part of the organization's 10th annual Caring for Communities Earth Month Celebration. The event will begin at the Vic's Pub/Victoria House property, located at the junction of Rte. 45 and Fairground Road west of Lewisburg.

Serious erosion of the stretch of Limestone Run that passes through the property was addressed during August, 2012, through the combined efforts of the Conservancy, the Union County Conservation District, the Department of Environmental Protection, the Fish and Boat Commission, Bucknell University, Hepner's Landscaping and Vic's Pub owners, managers and employees who invested time, money and labor. The project received a DEP Growing Greener grant of $26,000.

Participants will learn how the restoration was accomplished and how plantings both enhance the project and provide food for the restaurant. Following the Vic's Pub segment of the presentation, participants will walk, bike or drive to St. Mary's Park to learn about follow-up measures that were taken at that site.

For more information about this free event, call the Conservancy at 524-8666 or visit <http://linnconservancy.org/news/cfc/>.

Linn Conservancy to Host Owl Prowl, Astronomy Night

Educator Joe Southerton will lead an owl walk on Saturday, April 13, beginning at 7:30 p.m., at the Dale's Ridge Trail parking lot at the Dale/Engle/Walker (D/E/W) property in Buffalo Twp. Before heading off to find owls along Buffalo Creek, Mr. Southerton will talk about the habits of those owls that are permanent resident of Central Pennsylvania, including screech owls, great horned, barn, barred and long-eared owls. The short walk is over level, but somewhat uneven surface.

The Owl Prowl will be followed at 8:30 p.m. by an astronomy observation conducted by Bucknell University physics professor Ned Ladd. Participants will have an opportunity to stargaze through Dr. Ladd's high-powered telescope or to bring their own. This event will be held adjacent to the Dale/Engle/Walker House.

The D/E/W property is located at 1471 Strawbridge Road off Route 192, 1.7 miles west of Lewisburg. The Merrill W. Linn Land and Waterways Conservancy, as part of its 10th annual Caring for Communities Earth Month Celebration, sponsors both free events. For more information about these and other Earth Month events call the Conservancy at 524-8666 or visit <http://linnconservancy.org/news/cfc/>.

Take a Trip Through History

Now that the nice weather is here, you might want to plan a trip through history in Buffalo Valley.

The Union County Historical Society has published "On the Road; History the Throughout Union County," a car tour on CD that provides an informative and enjoyable way to visit the countryside and towns in Union County.

Dozens of sites spanning 200 years of county history are visited in this self-guided tour that may be taken in its entirety or in parts. The tour includes stops in New Berlin, Dry Valley, Winfield, Lewisburg, Buffalo Crossroads, Mazeppa, White Springs, Hartleton and Mifflinburg. Among the sites are the original county courthouse, cemeteries, mills, Plain Sect settlements, historic houses, and Bucknell University. Maps and instructional material accompany the CD.

The CD is narrated by area residents with family ties to the county and to portions of the script reflecting their ancestry: John C. Snook from Mifflinburg, a Seebold descendant; Peggy Ulmer from Lewisburg, a Gundy descendant; Nancy Showers from New Berlin, a Ross family descendant, and David King of Mifflinburg, a descendant of 19th-century Union County Amish residents.

"On the Road: History Throughout Union County" can be purchased or mail-ordered from the Union County Historical Society, Union County Courthouse, 103 S. Second Street, Lewisburg, PA 17837. The CD is also available at Natural Foods and Garden store, Route 45 Lewisburg. For more information contact the Society office at 570-524-8666 or historical@ptd.net or visit our website www.unioncountyhistoricalsociety.org.

Dairy News

By: Dawn Franck

Well, we all thought spring was around the corner but Mother Nature certainly hasn't been ready to let go of winter. Perhaps we will have some more luck with the April showers that will bring along the May flowers. My great grandmother used to say, "Whether it's cold or whether it's hot, we shall have weather, whether or not!" With all the snow, we've stayed home quite a bit. One of those cold blustery evenings, my sister and I watched American Idol. As two of the judges started to squabble, my sister made a comment about one of them being a "Diva". That stuck with me for a few days and as our animals started to give birth around the farm; I began thinking about how dairy cows are divas too. Not that they can sing (although they sure sound like some of my family members singing in the shower) but they have a high expectation. Let me explain...

First, the dairy farmer has to properly mix the exact rations and make sure they are delivered to our diva in the barn in a timely fashion. Let me tell you, if someone is late by even a few minutes, they will let it be known. And if the rations don't agree with the cows, they won't make milk.

Next, they require deluxe accommodations. Plain old straw won't do for these pampered prima donnas! They have soft sand with clean bedding over it. And if the housekeeping isn't done daily, the girls will let you know their displeasure by smacking you with a dirty tail.

It's not the cow's fault they are divas. We, as farmers, teach them from a young age that they are to expect this fine treatment. First, we separate the calf and it has its own home. We tend to the calves twice a day, feeding them a gourmet diet, giving them only the finest water to drink, cleaning their homes and protecting them from disease. As they grow older and produce milk, it's just as important for them to have those twice daily visits. We collect the nutritious, wholesome milk they produce but it also gives us an opportunity to check them for any problems that may arise.

And like all divas, they are scheduled for regular pedicures by a skilled hoof trimmer. Because dairy animals don't spend a lot of time walking, their hooves don't wear down like other breeds of livestock. The overgrowth can cause a cow to become lame. And if you've ever had a hang nail or blister, you know how uncomfortable it can be.

The hoof trimmer isn't the only person that pampers the dairy cow. The mobile veterinarian also comes to visit every couple of weeks for a herd check. This highly trained specialist checks the cows for lameness, body and udder condition, overall health and pregnancy. He or she can usually tell if the cow is bred by palpation as early as 36 days.

So, while the girls aren't the Singing Cows as you enter Chocolate World in Hershey, they are none the less, divas. And we wouldn't have it any other way.

As I dream of warmer weather, I am thinking of all the picnics, family reunions and graduation parties that come with summer. That has me yearning for the tasty treats that come with the guests as well. I have always been a fan of Peanut Butter Pie and my gram makes a really good one...not too sweet with just the right amount of peanut butter. This is a variation I found that incorporates chocolate into the recipe.

Peanut Butter Fudge Ripple Pie

Crust:
1 1/2 C. crème filled chocolate cookie crumbs
1/4 C. BUTTER

Filling:
8 oz. pkg. CREAM CHEESE, softened
2 eggs
3/4 C. powdered sugar
1 C. WHIPPING CREAM, whipped
1/4 C. peanut butter
1/2 C. semi-sweet chocolate chips, melted
1 tsp. vanilla

In a 9" pan, combine all crust ingredients and mix well. Press mixture firmly in the bottom and up the sides of the pan. Refrigerate while preparing filling. In a small bowl, combine CREAM

CHEESE, powdered sugar, peanut butter and vanilla. Beat at medium speed until smooth and well blended. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Fold in WHIPPED CREAM then spoon into the crust. Spoon melted chocolate randomly over the filling. Gently pull a knife through chocolate to marble. Freeze at least 2 hours or until firm. If frozen overnight, let stand at room temperature almost 15 minutes before serving.

As I was trying to decide what recipes to share this month, I must be having some cravings for chocolate and peanut butter as that is what the next recipe is also. The recipe came from Heidi Criswell who has been the longtime editor of the Mifflinburg Telegraph. Ever since I was 10 and became the news reporter for the Good Time 4-H club, she and John Stamm have let me write articles to submit to the paper. For several years it was as the club news reporter then again after I became the Dairy Princess. Mr. Stamm passed away January 9th of this year. I am eternally grateful for the opportunity and support they both have given me throughout the years.

Peanut Butter Brownies

1 1/2 C BUTTER divided
1/2 tsp. salt
3/4 C. baking cocoa, divided
1 - 18 oz. jar of peanut butter
4 eggs
1/3 C. MILK
2 C. sugar
10 large marshmallows
1 tsp. vanilla
2 C. confectioner's sugar
1 1/2 C. all-purpose flour

In a saucepan, melt 1 C BUTTER; stir in 1/2 C cocoa until smooth. Remove from the heat. In a mixing bowl, combine the eggs, sugar and vanilla. Beat for 1 minute. Combine flour and salt. Gradually add to egg mixture. Beat in cocoa mixture; mix well. Transfer to a greased baking pan. Bake at 350°F for 18-22 minute or until toothpick inserted near the center comes out clean. Cool on a rack. Meanwhile, place peanut butter in a microwave safe bowl. Microwave, uncovered, at 50% power for 2 minutes, stirring once. Stir until peanut butter is blended and spread over the warm brownies. Refrigerate for 45 minutes or until peanut butter is set. Place the remaining cocoa in a heavy saucepan. Stir in MILK until smooth; add the marshmallows and remaining BUTTER. Cook and stir over medium heat until BUTTER and marshmallows are melted and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in confectioner's sugar. Spread over peanut butter layer. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes. Cut into squares.

I'm not sure where the last recipe came from but it was written by me in an awkward handwriting similar to that of a child in elementary school. It obviously made an impression on me and we use this recipe often. Who knew mashed potatoes could taste so good!

Smashed Potatoes with Chive

8 large Russet Potatoes
1 TBSP BUTTER
8 oz. of CREAM CHEESE softened
1/4 C. MILK
(sour cream can be substituted for cream cheese)
2 TBSP. fresh chopped chive
Pinch of salt

Cook potatoes until a fork can be put through them easily. Drain water and add CREAM CHEESE, salt, BUTTER, MILK and chive. With a potato masher, stomp the potatoes until all the ingredients are mixed together. It's okay if they are lumpy but you can stomp them until they are the way your family likes them. You can also make potatoes with bacon, garlic or whatever you want in them.

The Mifflinburg Intermediate School has announced the recipients of the March ASPIRES award which is sponsored by the Mifflinburg Kiwanis Club. According to Principal Scott Zimmerman, this award recognizes students that have displayed anti-bullying behaviors in that they are respectful, kind, include everyone, accept differences and strive for school success. Each student will receive a certificate and cash award at the school's end-of-the-year assembly.

Jenna Haines, daughter of Michael and Angie Haines and a student in Mrs. Sheesley's homeroom, is the third grade honoree. She has an older brother and sister and her favorite class is Gym. Ice Angels Plunge at RiverWoods!!!

The cancellation of the Polar Bear Plunge earlier this year, due to dangerous river conditions, did not deter the RiverWoods Ice Angels. The Ice Angels rescheduled their plunge into the NOT SO COLD indoor pool at RidgeCrest on the RiverWoods Campus on Saturday, Mar. 2. Led by Patti Schmieder, volunteer, and Stacy Morehart, campus beautician, eleven of the original 23 plungers made a big splash! The Ice Angels had a personal goal to raise money for benevolent care and successfully raised $2,563 for residents at RiverWoods. Benevolent care covers the most basic of needs - housing, food and medicine - for residents in financial distress. The Ice Angels were so grateful for the show of support from friends and family that they did not want to disappoint their donors! This was the second year the plungers raised money for benevolent care making their cumulative total nearly $5,000. "We are so grateful to the staff and volunteers who have made this event a great success," remarks Sue Jamison, Director of the Annual Fund, "all proceeds support benevolent care - our greatest need - and we applaud our plungers for their creativity and dedication to RiverWoods."

Eight Is Great For Johnson

By Gerald Hodges/the Racing Reporter

Jimmie Johnson led 343 laps in Sunday's 500-lap Sprint Cup race for his eighth win at the Martinsville track.

"We got into a rhythm and were able to drive our own race," said Johnson. "It's tough to get around Martinsville, but we were able to stay up front and avoid a lot of the stuff that happened behind us."

It was his second win of the season and boosts him back into the points lead.

Johnson dominated the first half of the race and never dropped lower than fourth. Matt Kenseth was the leader during the middle stages of the race but faded near the end.

There were a total of 12 caution flags, and one red flag period, including three yellows within the last 39 laps.

Each time Johnson was the leader, and each time he got a good jump on the rest of the field.

The last caution came on lap 485 after Kurt Busch's No. 78 hit the outside wall and caught on fire. The red flag was put out and the cars were parked on the front straightaway.

When racing resumed on lap 492, the four leading drivers were; Jimmie Johnson, Clint Bowyer, Jeff Gordon, and Kyle Busch.

Johnson got a good restart and broke away from the others. Clint Bowyer made a good try, but was not able to overtake Johnson.

"I thought we did a pretty good job," said Bowyer. "She (his No. 15 car) was just torn up too bad to race any better. We had a good car and I'm disappointed, but that's the way things happen."

There was some concern prior to the race as to how clean Bowyer and Jeff Gordon, who finished third, would race each other. Each driver tagged the other at least once, but it was no more than a racing statement.

"We didn't need all those last cautions," said Gordon. "I made a mistake on pit road that cost us some spots. We made a ton of changes today and the car took off. It was awesome on long runs, but we came up short on the shorter runs."

Kasey Kahne finished fourth, followed by Kyle Busch, Brad Keselowski, Jamie McMurray, Marcos Ambrose, Greg Biffle, and Mark Martin.

Martin, who was subbing for the injured Denny Hamlin was lucky to place in the top-10. He was caught up or involved in four on track skirmishes. During a routine pit stop about midway of the race, he took off before the tire man had tightened the lug nuts on the left front tire. The tire rolled off, putting him a lap down.

Brian Vickers, who finished 11th, had his share of problems also. His No. 55 Michael Waltrip Toyota looked like it had just returned from a war zone.

Danica Patrick's day finished much better than it started. She spun out on lap 16 and went a lap down. Near the end of the race, she got into the side of Dale Earnhardt's No. 88 and spun him around. She finished 12th, much better than her two teammates, Tony Stewart, who finished 14th, and Ryan Newman, the 31st-place finisher.

If it hadn't been for bad luck, Kurt Busch, the 37th place finisher wouldn't have had any luck at all. He survived three spinouts, and a mechanical problem, but on lap 487 he hit the outside wall and his car burst into flames.

"I didn't have any brakes," said Busch. "I could feel them fading a couple laps before that. I turned it hard to keep from running head-on into the fence."

Top-10 leaders after 6 of 36: 1. Johnson-231, 2. Keselowski-225, 3. Earnhardt-219, 4. Kyle Busch-203, 5. Kahne-199, 6. Biffle-199, 7. Edwards-193, 8. Bowyer-179, 9. Menard-179, 10. Kenseth-172. SAUTER GETS MARTINSVILLE TRUCK WIN

Two races into the 2013 camping world truck Series and Johnny Sauter has two wins. His last win came at Martinsville after he made a late race pass over Jeb Burton.

"We all knew today was going to be about tire management, just from the tire wear we saw (Friday in practice), more so than ever before that I can ever remember here at Martinsville," said Sauter. "The first part of the race, we ran 80 percent, just trying to maintain and not lose too much track position, but still try to run as fast as we could."

Sauter won the season opener at Daytona, and after a break of 43 days, won the second race of the season at the .526-mile short track. Sauter won for the eighth time in the Truck series and posted his first back-to-back victories. It was only the second time in series history that a driver has opened the season with back-to-back wins; the first was 2006 by Mark Martin.

Remaining top-10: 2. Matt Crafton, 3. Jeb Burton, 4. Timothy Peters, 5. Darrell Wallace, 6. Chase Elliott, 7. Dakoda Armstrong,

8. Ryan Sieg, 9. Erik Jones, 10. Ron Hornaday.

Top-10 leaders after 2 of 22: 1. Sauter-94, 2. Burton-82, 3. Crafton-77, 4. Hornaday-76, 5. Wallace Jr.-7272, 6. Sieg-70, 7. Bodine-67, 8. T. Dillon-66, 9. Paludo-64, 10. Blaney-64. TIME IS ON JOHNSON'S SIDE

Jimmy Johnson is Mr. Cool. The five-time NASCAR Sprint Cup champion can afford to be, because his team usually heats up as the season progresses.

Six races into the 36-race schedule Johnson and his team have it going their way.

After winning the pole and Sunday's race, he is back in the points lead.

"I think it's important to stay calm and focused," said Johnson "I have been so fortunate to not need to worry about Richmond and making the Chase and, hopefully, it stays that way. Leaving Daytona in a hole is something we have grown accustomed to. It takes seven, eight weeks to get back up in the top-five in points. A quick start is important. It frees up the first half of the year for you."

"You can preserve the test sessions that we are allowed to have at real racetracks on the tire we're going to race on. You can focus on inventory of your racecars, which we are all behind with the Gen-6 car. Just get your car allotment built up, which is very important to do at this stage. Instead of cutting up existing cars and rebuilding stuff, and on and on, it's important to get off to a quick start. It helps lighten the work load for everybody."

Johnson is eighth on NASCAR's all-time wins list, trailing Dale Earnhardt, who is seventh with 76 wins.

He is second in total wins among active drivers behind Jeff Gordon (87).

Of the 23 tracks on which the series competes, Johnson has won Sprint Cup races at all but five - Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn, Chicagoland Speedway in Joliet, Ill., Watkins Glen (N.Y.) International, Homestead-Miami Speedway and Kentucky Speedway in Sparta.

Johnson's 10 wins in 2007 was the highest number recorded in a single season since Gordon posted 13 victories in 1998.

Lafferty, Parks And Parker Shine In Port Royal Mains

By Shawn Brouse

Rick Lafferty scored the ninth 410 sprint car win of his career at Port Royal Speedway on Saturday night, taking the lead from Steve Buckwalter just shy of the halfway point for the victory.

Matt Parks was the winner of the 20-lap late model main that was marred by a violent crash early on that saw one driver airlifted to Hershey Medical Center.

And in the 305 sprint main it was Eric Parker holding off Logan Wagner to open up the season for the division at the track.

Buckwalter started the 25-lap sprint main on the pole and took the lead at the start with third starter Lafferty moving right into second when the initial green flag unfurled.

Buckwalter entered lapped traffic on the seventh circuit just before the races first caution flag unfurled.

Chad Layton and Lance Dewease lined up behind the pair for the restart.

Yellow again fell over the field with 10 laps down for a stopped Davey Sammons and the restart saw Lafferty motor into the lead with a pass off of the fourth corner to complete the 11th tour.

With 10 to go the yellow again regrouped the field, this time for a stopped Layton, while second starter Mike Erdley sat third for the restart.

While Lafferty took off, Erdley began applying heavy pressure to Buckwalter for second and the pair raced closely for the spot until lap 22 when they collided after a low move by Erdley in the third corner ended up pushing both cars across the track and into the outside wall, bringing out the red flag.

With no injuries reported, Blane Heimbach restarted second for the final three laps and ended there ahead of Mike Wagner, Doug Esh and Dewease.

Sixth through 10th went to Dylan Cisney, Cliff Brian, Nate Snyder, Keith Kauffman and Mike Ruttkamp.

Lafferty's margin of victory was 2.615 seconds.

Heats for the 19 cars entered went to Cisney and Dewease.

On the first lap of the late model main was put in the books before a yellow regrouped the field with Derek Casner leading the field.

The restart saw a six-car crash unfold in the first corner with the brunt of the melee being sustained by all time track winner Scott Haus of Hamburg.

Haus' car became air born and went above the guardrail before crashing down hard onto the track as well as the other cars involved.

After a lengthy stoppage, Haus was airlifted to Hershey Medical Center but was communicating with emergency personnel.

Casner restarted with the lead over Steve Campbell with sixth starter Parks in third.

Parks took second from Campbell with seven laps away and then passed Casner on the next loop to take the lead and streak away.

The margin for his fourth career Port win over Casner was 6.445 seconds.

Campbell rode home third followed by Marvin Winters and 24th starter Chad Hollenbeck.

Sixth through 10th went to Trent Brenneman, Mike Lupfer, Sam Schaeffer, Brett Schadel and Terry Naugle.

Heats for the 25 cars went to Haus, Chris Casner and Schadel.

Parker wired the field from the pole for the opener of the 305 sprint division at the oval and earned the win mightily after fending off several challenges on restarts by Logan Wagner.

Wagner stuffed his black and green racer to Parker's inside as the pair raced into the first corner on more than two occasions only to see a steady and straight Parker stay in control exiting the second turn.

After finishing second, Wagner gave total credit to Parker for the win, noting that he had thrown all he had at him for the victory but he proved unshakable.

Jason Bergstresser rode home third followed by George Riden and Alex Schanz.

Sixth through 10th went to Scott Ellerman, Nathan Gramley, Steve Kennawell, Lance Newlin and Jeff Miller.

Triple heats for the 27-car field went to Schanz, Mike Wagner II., and Logan Wagner.

Susquehanna Life Magazine Donates Items to Library

The Public Library for Union County received another in a series of donations of books and CDs from Susquehanna Life magazine to add to the 'Susquehanna Life Magazine Pennsylvania Collection,' established by the publication in 2010.

"We established the 'Susquehanna Life Magazine Pennsylvania Collection' in appreciation of the role the library has played in cultivating connections between and among the communities it serves," explained Susquehanna Life magazine Founder and Publisher Erica Shames.

To date, Susquehanna Life magazine has donated over 300 books and a complete set of Susquehanna Life magazines—over 20 years of issues—to the library's collection.

The collection is a treasure trove of discovery. Spotting life in Central Pennsylvania from many different perspectives, the collection is designed to help draw attention to the hidden jewels and undiscovered gems of the region. Dozens of first edition books are included, as are several out-of-print works.

"It's gratifying to see that the collection has sparked the kind of attention Erica envisioned three years ago when she established the collection," noted Melanie Weber, Head of Adult Services at the library. "A book club chose one of the offerings in the collection to read. And the books are in heavy rotation, especially among people who recently relocated to the area."

The collection is housed in a free-standing shelving unit located in the central adult section. Comfortable seating nearby encourages readers to relax and browse these regionally-related materials that offer glimpses of the positive, little-known and under-appreciated aspects of life in Central Pennsylvania.

Susquehanna Life magazine, headquartered in Lewisburg, has built a powerful connection with residents and visitors of the 27 counties of Central Pennsylvania it serves. For 20 years, Susquehanna Life magazine has enthusiastically encouraged readers to see, do and discover all that this special region has to offer.

Walk On Foundation Fashion Show

By Kay Poeth

10 year old Hanna Mensch of Milton was selling her handmade, magnetic switchable jewelry at the event. Her business is Made By A Kid 4 A Kid. Her line includes earrings, necklaces, rings, bracelets, and zipper pulls. She donates 10% of her profits to Mostly Mutts.

Lights! Camera! Action! On Saturday, March 30 the Walk On Foundation hosted the 4th Annual Fashion Show at the historic Campus Theatre in Lewisburg. Approximately 50 children stepped out of a gleaming white limousine to parade down the Red Carpet for this special gala event. Cameras were flashing as the young models posed for the paparazzi.

Courtney Calle, American Idol Contestant, was the Star Celebrity Guest for the Fashion Show. "I love to come out to perform. It is so much fun." In addition to performing several numbers, she autographed photos and her CD entitled Courtney Calle and posed for pictures. She rode in the limousine with the groups as they arrived for the gala.

The Fashion Show included hair, make up, beautiful clothes, a limousine ride, and being on stage with American Idol contestant Courtney Calle. Kari Boyer of Unique Cakes By Kari (Facebook) made all of the outfits that the children wore in the Fashion Show. The children were permitted to keep the outfits. Wilhelm Photography was on hand to take photos throughout the event. Any photos except the Glamour Shots were free to the models and their parents. The cake was made by Jolynn Heckman of Temptingly Scrumptious (Facebook).

10 year old Hanna Mensch of Milton was selling her handmade, magnetic switchable jewelry at the event. Her business is Made By A Kid 4 A Kid. Her line includes earrings, necklaces, rings, bracelets, and zipper pulls. She donates 10% of her profits to Mostly Mutts.

Alexia Bowen age 4 from Milton was one of the models. According to her mother Christy Bowen, "This is her first time doing anything like this. She is having a blast and loves the attention. The limousine ride was the best."

Danielle Davis heard about the Fashion Show when she did a Craft Show with Walk On Foundation. She went online to register her 3 year old daughter Olivia Goodrich. They traveled from Monroeton in Bradford County to participate.

Miley Seltzer of Bloomsburg also participated as a model. Her mother learned about it on Facebook. Miley was excited about the whole experience. "My favorite part is...everything!" said Miley.

Helena Watson, 10, of New Columbia was one of the older models for the event. Her mother Sally commented, "It is good for her because it is a self-esteem booster. A lot of her classmates are here. They are raising quite a bit of money for charity."

Sonya Boden of Harrisburg came in support of Helena Watson. "It is fantastic for little kids. They look pretty and it builds their self-esteem. They made a lot of girls happy-getting dressed up and getting their hair done."

Approximately 125 people audience members gathered for the Fashion Show. Each model walked across the stage and posed by a silver balloon arch. The host read a description of each child including favorite color, toys, hobbies, and talents. The event also included a performance by American Idol Contestant, Courtney Calle. During the last number all of the models were invited onto the stage as backup singers and dancers while Calle sang the "Firework." Then guests enjoyed lunch, the Chinese Auction, and a movie.

"Hearing all about me when I was on stage," was the best part confided Aiden Wagner of Beaver Springs.

Melissa Coup had two children entered in the Fashion Show.

"Seeing the happiness and smiles on all the kids' faces was so exciting. They were feeling important and beautiful."

"We are glad to be part of this event and to support a great foundation," said the Kraus family.
