Go, Joe!

and horns honked in support of his efforts as he zipped past. Prior to the miles accrued in this event, Joe Snedeker has pedaled more than 7600 miles and raised 1.6 million dollars for St. Joseph's Center. He has cycled through 16 states. Each year his route varies.

Mindy Roat and her children Derrik and Maggie from New Berlin were joined by Ginger Aurand from Northumberland to root for Joe as he passed them at the intersection of Rt. 104 and Red Ridge Road. The children were jumping up and down, holding signs and screeching "Go Joe." A few minutes later Joe whizzed by on his bicycle and the crew in the WNEP RV waved to the people as they passed. Kay Smith was excited to part of the celebration at Mifflinburg Park. "St. Joe's has special kids that need special love."

Elizabeth Raup waited patiently to have her picture taken with Tom Clark. This was the fourth time for her to be photographed with the meteorologist.

Joe Snedeker, Noreen Clark, and Tom Clark arrived at Mifflinburg Park at 6:18 pm. They greeted fans, signed autographs, posed for photos, and visited the various stands around the park.

"We watch them all the time on the news. I watch them before school so I will know what the weather will be like," said a young man named Bruce. His mother confided, "Bruce has a tiny crush on Raegen Medgie."

Noreen Clark told fans that she and Tom had to look on the internet to figure out how to make the tandem bike go. Noreen had to relinquish control to Tom as she couldn't put her feet down. They rode with Joe for approximately seven miles out of Riverside. "We were slowing Joe down and he needed to make his 6:00 pm deadline destination." Tom Clark laughed, "It is harder than it looks (to ride a tandem bike)." Tom and Noreen Clark rejoined Joe in Mifflinburg to ride the final blocks into the park with him.

Noreen Clark noted, "It is lovely to see the farms, land, and how beautiful the scenery looks and how well everyone takes care of their property."

Between posing for photographs Snedeker remarked, "I like mixing up with people and seeing all of the people that I talk to everyday (via TV) and now I am actually meeting them!"

When asked what motivates him to continue riding each year, Joe explained, "It is a tradition now and so much good comes out of it. It snowballed on its own inertia. It keeps growing and growing."

St. Joseph's Center provides programs and living services to children and young adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities. For today, here is another article from March, 2004... This week I'd like to share a recipe.
SCHNITZ UN KNEPP
(Apples and Buttons)

3 pounds ham
1 quart dried apples
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg, well beaten
3 tablespoons melted butter
Milk enough to make a fairly moist, stiff batter.
Pick over and wash dried apples. Cover with water and let soak overnight or for a number of hours. In the morning, cover ham with cold water and let boil for 3 hours.
Add the apples and water in which they have been soaked and continue to boil for another hour. Add brown sugar.
Make dumplings by sifting together flour, salt, pepper and baking powder. Stir in the beaten egg, milk and shortening.
Drop the batter by spoonfuls into the hot liquid with the ham and apples. Cover kettle tightly and cook dumplings for 15 minutes.
Serve piping hot on large platter.
From Culinary Arts Press-1936
Just a bit about my background... I grew up in Beaver Springs, graduated from BVHS, went on to Penn State, met my husband there but after we were married, we didn't live in PA for 30 years... lived in New York state, Ohio, Texas, California and Oregon.
In 1985, we moved to West Chester. But right after Communism fell, we also lived in Prague, Cz. Rep. for almost eight years.
I've always been interested in my Pennsylvania Dutch heritage and so enjoy finding out more about it. I'd love to hear from you!! Do send your comments, poems, recipes and stories to me. Jean Markley Keiser, 1133 Carolina Ave., West Chester, PA 19380 bjkeiser@cheerful.com

Library News

Village of Alvira, topic of library presentation
Nestled in the White Deer Valley, the village of Alvira once resembled a Norman Rockwell-version of American rural life: a proud main street, tidy wood-framed houses, picket fences, schools, churches, blacksmiths, a general store and a close-knit, centuries-old community.
All of that ended abruptly in the spring of 1942, when the United States War Department seized and decimated this peaceful village and its surrounding farmland to build the Pennsylvania Ordnance Works—a massive wartime TNT plant covering 8,400 acres of previously private land in two counties.
What happened to the village of Alvira, its residents and the ordnance works itself are the topic of a riveting multimedia presentation slated for 7 p.m. Thursday, August 1 at the Public Library for Union County, Lewisburg.
Local historians Stephen and Martha Huddy tell the story of Alvira and its residents through photographs, artifacts and personal stories shared through generations. Having been granted access to the remains of the village, the Huddys provide an interesting look at this relatively unknown piece of local history.
Reserve your seat for this one-of-a-kind look into our county's history by calling 570-523-1172 or by visiting the library at 255 Reitz Blvd., Lewisburg. Students in the Lewisburg Area School District participating in the One Book Every Sophomore program are encouraged to attend.
This program is one of the ways in which the Public Library for Union County supports the PA Forward Initiative by providing Civic and Social Literacy opportunities for learning. To learn more visit PAForward.org.

“Rocket” Ryan Wins Brickyard 400

By Gerald Hodges/the Racing Reporter

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Ryan Newman won the Brickyard 400 in his 13th attempt.

Newman started on the pole and finished the race over three-seconds ahead of runner-up Jimmie Johnson.

“It’s always been a dream of mine to win this,” said Newman. “To win the pole and the race makes this a great day. Matt (Matt Borland, crew chief) made the right call when he decided I should stay out instead of coming in for new tires.

“It’s hard right now to realize this happened to me. It’ll take a couple days for it to sink in that I won at Indy.”

Johnson led 73 laps of the 160-lap race, but on his last pit stop, his team had a mix-up on tires. The long pit stop allowed Newman, who did not pit, to gain a large lead.

“It’s always disappointing to have something like that happen,” said Johnson. “But that’s racing. The car was good, but it was tough to drive at times. We had a good day, and we’re very happy with where we finished.”

Third-place finisher Kasey Kahne had an up and down day, but was running well near the end of the race.

“We kept getting behind so much that it was hard to make it back to the front,” said Kahne. “We really got going near the end. The car just took off. I mean it was really fast.”

Newman’s car owner Tony Stewart finished fourth. “I can’t wait to congratulate him,” said Stewart. “He did an awesome job, winning the pole and race.”

Newman has said he plans to leave Stewart-Haas Racing at the end of this season, and currently does not have a ride for 2014.

Matt Kenseth finished fifth, followed by Dale Earnhardt Jr., Jeff Gordon, Joey Logano, Juan Montoya, and Kyle Busch.

Top-10 leaders after 20 of 36: 1. Johnson-740, 2. Bowyer-665, 3. Edwards-655, 4. Harvick-648, 5. Earnhardt-616, 6. Kenseth-615, 7. Kyle Busch-610, 8. Biffle-565, 9. Kahne-564, 10. J. Gordon-559. “ROWDY” SURVIVES SCARE TO WIN AT INDY

Kyle Busch dominated Saturday’s Nationwide race at the Brickyard, but Brian Scott gained the lead on the final restart, and Busch was forced to fight back in order to get the victory, and his eighth win of the season.

“It’s pretty awesome to win here whether you’re driving in Nationwide or Cup, sports cars, Formula One, MotoGP, or anything,” Busch said. “It’s cool to win at this place just because of the history of all the automobiles that have run on this surface before. I almost messed up and gave it away.”

Scott finished second, followed by Joey Logano, Brian Vickers, Kevin Harvick, Paul Menard, Matt Kenseth, Kevin Swindell, Michael Annett, and Travis Pastrana.

Top-10 leaders after 19 of 33: 1. A. Dillon-656, 2. Smith-650, 3. Sadler-643, 4. Hornish-642, 5. Vickers-628, 6. Allgaier-621, 7. Larson-612, 8. Scott-610, 9. Bayne-592, 10. Kligerman-589. ELDORA TRUCK RACE GOES TO AUSTIN DILLON

Austin Dillon won last Wednesday’s truck race at the Eldora Speedway before a packed house at the half-mile dirt track oval. Kyle Larson ran second, followed by Ryan Newman, Joey Coulter and Brendan Gaughan.

Top-10 leaders after 10 of 22: 1. Crafton-393, 2. Jeb Burton-345, 3. Buescher-342, 4. Ty Dillon-337, 5. Sauter-320, 6. Peters-320, 7. Gaughan-319, 8. R. Blaney-319, 9. D. Wallace-309, 10. Paludo-308.

NASCAR SIGNS BIG TV DEAL WITH NBC

The television package that NASCAR signed with NBC means bigger bucks for tracks, teams, and the sanctioning organization.

Will it bring more and better coverage of NASCAR racing to the fans?

NASCAR Chairman Brian France said he did not believe the sport was taking a risk by switching its races from ESPN to a different network.

“They have a robust lineup obviously without us and we’re going to add to that in a significant way,” France said. “From hearing from the leadership throughout the organization, they didn’t just want to own sports properties; they wanted to integrate within all their assets.

“They’re doing it right now. We don’t have to guess about it. We’re looking forward to it.”

In a 10-year deal, set to run from 2015 through 2024, NBC will broadcast the final 20 Cup events of the season, with seven races on NBC and 13 on NBC Sports Network. The deal gives NBC the Chase for the Sprint Cup, including the championship season finale.

The 10-year deal is worth $4.4 billion. The old package with ESPN and TNT was a combined $2.74 billion over eight years.

With Fox paying $2.4 billion over its eight-year (2015-2022) contract, the combined worth of NASCAR’s two new TV packages is $6.8 billion.

That’s big money considering the deal is split, with 65 percent going to the tracks, 25 percent to the teams and 10 percent to NASCAR.

If you’re counting, that’s $4.4 billion for the tracks and $680 million over eight years just to NASCAR.

In layman’s terms, it means each track will receive from 12-15 million dollars per race, depending on how NASCAR pays each track. Tracks with higher TV-ratings get more money.

If it seems like NASCAR might be coming up a little short, don’t worry. They charge each track a licensing fee, and tack on all kinds of extra charges.

Now, it’s understandable why tracks don’t have to fill their seats in order to make a profit.

Television is their cash cow.

The new deal, with ESPN and TNT, being replaced wasn’t exactly met with universal praise in the television world. Some analysts immediately began comparing NASCAR to the NHL, which suffered after moving its TV deal from ESPN to NBC.

George McNeilly, a former ESPN publicist who now runs McNeilly Communications, tweeted: “Would anticipate much less Sports Center coverage after 2015 season. Regular season NHL fans know what I am talking about.”

ESPN is still considered the major sports network. Some believe that if you’re not on ESPN, you’re not a big-time sport.

It’s unknown at this point whether the coverage will be better or worse. But there’s one thing for certain. If you want to get NASCAR’s attention, put your money on the table.

New Social Security Service Target of Scammers

By Joe DeLauter from the Home Instead Senior Care® office serving Central Pennsylvania

Q. I've just learned about the "my Social Security" online service that can help me track my Social Security benefits. I received an email to sign up. Is there anything I should know?

For those who receive benefits or have Medicare, "my Social Security" can help check estimates of your retirement, disability and survivor's benefits, your earnings record, and the estimated Social Security and Medicare taxes you've paid.

However, you should be suspicious of any emails sent to you.

The my Social Security account is a recently released new service for the public, but the agency is not sending emails to generate enrollment. To open one of these personal accounts, citizens should go directly to my Social Security at <http://www.ssa.gov/myaccount/>. If you receive an email inviting you to join, do not click any links.

Criminals are using "phishing" emails encouraging senior citizens to create an account. Rest assured, any email promoting this is not coming from the agency, according to information from the Social Security Administration.

Here's how to detect a fraudulent email message:

- Any email coming from Social Security will come from an email address ending in ".gov", although you should not trust the "From" address, since attackers can spoof this address.
- Any email coming from Social Security will not have email addresses associated with private companies such as Yahoo, Hotmail, Gmail, etc.
- Look for poor word choice, phrasing, spelling or extra words that are not needed in the text.
- Links to Social Security websites will always begin with <http://www.socialsecurity.gov/> or <https://secure.ssa.gov/> (the slash after ".gov" is important). For example, you should not trust a link that looks like this: <http://www.socialsecurity.gov.bx.co.rx/setup>. If you are suspicious of a link in an email, use your mouse to "hover over" the link to see the web address.

Please note: Members of the public who receive phishing emails should forward them to the U.S. Computer Emergency Readiness Team at phishing-report@us-cert.gov.

To create an account on my Social Security, you must provide some personal information about yourself and give answers to some questions that only you are likely to know. Next, you create a username and password that you will use to access your online account. This process protects you and keeps your personal Social Security information private.

Important Medication Tips For Senior Citizens

Should you be taking the medications you're taking? If you're 65 or older, that's an important question to ask yourself and your healthcare provider. Why? Because some commonly prescribed medications can actually be harmful for older adults.

As you get older, your body changes. These changes can increase the chances that you might have side effects from certain drugs. For example, your liver or kidneys may not function quite as well as when you were younger, so your body can't process medications in the same way. This can lead to a build-up of the drug in your system, which can increase the risk of side effects such as falls, a drop in blood pressure or heart rate, drowsiness, or confusion.

Many older adults have two or more health problems that require multiple medications and treatments. Because of this, older adults are more likely to experience potentially harmful interactions between their prescriptions. In fact, every year, one in three adults 65 and older has one or more harmful reactions to medications they are taking.

"Older adults and their caregivers need to take an active role in managing their medications," says Cathy Alessi, MD, a physician who specializes in the care of older adults and is the president of the American Geriatrics Society (AGS). "They need to ask questions of their doctor, nurse, physician assistant, or pharmacist, and read the information that comes with their medications. All medications have side effects, even those sold over-the-counter. That's why patients should discuss the risks and benefits of any medication with their healthcare provider before deciding which ones are right for them."

What should you do to lower your odds of having harmful medication side effects or drug interactions? Here are five tips from the American Geriatrics Society:

1. Bring a list of all the medications, vitamins, herbal supplements, and over-the-counter drugs you're taking to every medical appointment. The list should include the dosages you take and how often you take them. Be sure your emergency contact person or caregiver has an up-to-date copy of the list.
2. If you notice a new health problem or symptom after starting a new medication, you may be having a harmful drug reaction. Tell your healthcare provider right away. If you have a serious reaction, such as difficulty breathing or swelling in your throat, call 911 and go to the emergency room immediately.
3. Fill your prescriptions at the same pharmacy and get to know your local pharmacist. Your pharmacist's job is to be aware of all the medications you're taking. Most pharmacies use computer systems that alert the pharmacist to possible drug interactions.
4. Once or twice a year, ask your primary healthcare provider to review your list of medications, supplements, and vitamins. Ask whether you still need to take each one, and at its current dose. There may be times when understand these changes in your care.

To help healthcare providers care for older adults who take multiple medications, the AGS has published a list of medications that may cause harmful side effects in older people when taken alone or in combination. In the healthcare industry this list is known as the "Beers List," or "Beers Criteria," and is named after the late Dr. Mark Beers, a geriatric medicine specialist who originated the list in 1991.

For more information about how to safely manage your medications, visit www.healthinaging.org, the website of the AGS Foundation for Health in Aging.

Arthritis Sufferers Can Benefit from Walking

By Joe DeLauter from the Home Instead Senior Care® office serving Central Pennsylvania

Q. My 81-year-old father's arthritis is so bad he says he doesn't feel like doing anything anymore. I've read that the best remedies for arthritis pain are walking and water therapy. How can I convince him to give this a try, since he lives alone and has no one to motivate him?

According to statistics, your dad has company! Arthritis is among the more common ailments of growing older. In fact, about 12.4 million seniors – 33.6 percent of those age 65 and older – in the U.S. suffer with osteoarthritis, the most common form of arthritis among older people, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC). And 50 million Americans live with some form of arthritis.

Early diagnosis and proper management of arthritis can help people with arthritis decrease pain, improve function, decrease and delay disability, and stay productive and active.

Your dad should strive to incorporate these five arthritis solutions into his lifestyle:

- 1) learn self-management strategies,
- 2) be active,
- 3) watch his weight,
- 4) protect his joints, and
- 5) see his doctor.

Despite the known benefits of physical activity to help manage arthritis, adults with arthritis are less active than adults without arthritis, according to the CDC.

Federal guidelines recommend all adults, including adults with arthritis, get at least 150 minutes per week of at least moderate intensity aerobic activity and that they do muscle strengthening exercises at least 2 days per week.

Since your father lives alone, try to help him find a walking partner such as a friend or neighbor who could join him for daily jaunts around the neighborhood. Or he could look into a walking club in the community. Contact a local YMCA or fitness center to inquire about walking clubs. Other seniors have discovered the benefits of water therapy. Check with local hospitals in your area about such programs.

Also consider the benefits of a non-medical caregiver. For instance, a Home Instead CAREGiverSM could either accompany your father on a walk, provide transportation to a fitness program or encourage him to try to stay active. Contact your local Home Instead Senior Care® office to learn more.

200 years ago on March 22, Union County was officially separated from Northumberland County. We are celebrating! Daily, weekly monthly countywide until November 22, residents and visitors can attend the ongoing birthday party.

Trail rides, memorial service at Chamber's Ridge, Opening of Elias Church, exhibits at the Gutelius House, Packwood Museum, Mifflinburg Buggy Museum, Lewisburg and Highland Cemeteries' tours, and Historical Society meetings about Slave holders at Old Buffalo, Surveying and Original families have been well attended. If you missed any, there is more to come. Check out www.unioncounty200.com. Pick up your Passport and join the celebration.

On 6/12/13 the Lewisburg Sunrise Rotary are honoring seven persons who have given of their selves to make this year one to remember with their Service Above Self Award. Union County's Commissioner trifecta: Preston Boop, John Showers and Jon Mathias have given unstintingly of their time and energy to plan, promote and participate while running our county.

Preston has been an advocate for agriculture and recycling. He has encouraged Union County Conservation to participate with a planting of 200 trees.

Jon is our technocrat and business manager and mathematician. He keeps us financially grounded and uses his executive experience gained at JPM to see that we run efficiently. His softer side provides us with excellent photography for our website.

John Showers is co-chair of the Bicentennial Commission - drafted unwilling but ever upbeat. His imagination has fueled the great bison debate and arrival this week of the community bison sponsored by the tireless work of the Union County Foundation. From the inspirational opening and elegant reception thanks to his wife Nancy to the most recent addition of the all American Wednesday evening premiere opening of the movie about the 50 year turtle race in New Berlin followed by the Sousa Band Concert in the Park. John is always there..

All of this planning: execution of the website, design and production of brochures posters, publicity, event scheduling, souvenir production, financial record keeping is done by four Union County employees who do their appointed job positions and in addition are on call 24-7 to do bicentennial tasks. Surely they are doing service above self. Ask their young families.

Shawn McLaughlin, Planning director comes to the position with a degree in recreation and parks management. He has lead the charge to energize marketing and publicity.

John Del Vecchio developed the website and maintains it. Both are constantly being updated with events and features-the latest a reenactment of the return of the Civil War volunteers marching from the Montandon depot to the Lewisburg Hotel..

Cindy Sheesley is the Executive Administrative Assistant to the Commissioners in Union County. In addition to county finances and working with auditors, she oversees our souvenir sales and assists in preparing for special events. She reminds us to write sales slips, collect taxes and give correct change. Our books must balance and our stock must be replaced. She saved us from a $1000 overcharge on a computer with skill and courtesy, bringing the shopper back to our store although this time with a check book. She is a dynamo.

Pamela Mabus has found a new niche in graphic arts. Formerly a zoning officer for Union County, she finds creating and producing brochures, tickets, posters and flyers rewarding. We are grateful for her newly found talent.

Without these four and the guidance of the commissioners, this year's celebration would not be so complete and so professional, creating a memory for all. Nada Gray is pleased to recognize them for their service above self. The Lewisburg Sunrise Rotary and the citizens of Union County offer them a well-deserved thank you.

The public is invited to join the Lewisburg Sunrise Rotary Club at our weekly meeting on Wednesday at 7:00am at the Country Cupboard, Lewisburg.

In a joint Rotary Club meeting hosted this year by the Mifflinburg Rotary Club, the 2013-2014 Officers of Mifflinburg and Lewisburg Sunset Rotary Clubs were installed on Tuesday evening, June 25th. Past District Governor Karen Teichman of the Sunset Club performed the installation ceremony. The new 2013-2014 Lewisburg Sunset Rotary officers include (In photo), front row: Peg Bouton, Director, Vickie Zimmerman-President, Irene Henniger-Immediate Past President and Assistant Governor, (back row) Dr. Stephen Appian-Padi-Sargent at Arms, Karen Teichman-Director, Dawn Sprenkle- President Elect, Kelly Komula-Vice President, Pete Henniger-Treasurer, Doug Sprenkle-Secretary, Hank Baylor-Director. Not present for the photo, Dustin Derr-Director, Lois Purcell-Director, Mike Purcell-Director and Fred Teichman- Director. The 2013-2014 Rotary International President Ron Burton is from Norman, Oklahoma, and took office following 2012-2013 RI President Sakuji Tanaka of Japan. RI President Burton has set this years' Rotary theme "Engage Rotary Change Lives." Through engagement he challenges Rotarians to become more actively involved in their clubs and take an active role in their community and projects. And, through the work of many people working together in Rotary's many projects, a positive change can be made in lives around our world. The Lewisburg Sunset Rotary Club is involved in several local projects including starting the new 2013 Lego Club at the Union County Library, for example, and internationally, currently working with other to construct a solar energy system at Anse-à-Galets, Gonâve Island, Haiti that will benefit over 120,000 residents living on this 37 mile by 9 mile long island.

Janice Butler from the Office of Civic Engagement at Bucknell University was a recent featured speaker at the Lewisburg Sunset Rotary Club. Janice offered a variety of information on this department's work with Bucknell students and their outreach in the community. Students have been working with the Lewisburg Sunset rotary Club during the Ice Festival for several years with the free children's game in Hufnagle Park as well as serving at the Chili Cookoff inside Puirseil's Irish Pub. Janice explained that these engagements provide service learning for the students. They definitely meet the needs of the community by getting involved and through this program, learn the importance of community engagement. Among other activities, the club was told about post-Katrina volunteerism in New Orleans and through Service Learning Courses. A favorite program is the Bucknell Buddies in the Milton School District.

In the photo Club President Vickie Zimmerman (right) presents the speakers gift "Stop Snoring Bernard" to Janice Butler (left), Office of Civic Engagement, Bucknell University. Presentation of a childhood early learning book is a continued club literacy project, asking speakers to pay the gift of literacy forward and share reading with a child. The Lewisburg Sunset Rotary Club meets on Mondays at 5:45 PM at Puirseil's Irish Pub, 17 South Sixth Street in Lewisburg. Professional, business and community-minded individuals are invited to Be Our Guest and visit a club meeting to learn more about Rotary.

On Friday, July 12 the Greater Susquehanna Valley Chamber of Commerce joined owners Bob, Rob and the rest of their staff at Colonel Ricketts' Hard Cider as they opened their newest store in Lewisburg. Live guitar music, cider samplings and a lot of networking made this event a success. In 2006, owners Bob & Rob Antanitis bought a press and began making their own sweet cider. Now they direct every step of the cider making process, from selecting the apples through bottling. The only thing they don't do is grow the apples. Each year Bob & Rob produce new flavors, depending on the types of apples available and growing conditions. Although they usually mix varieties, they sometimes produce distinctive single-apple ciders, such as Delicious RedandSatin Gold.
