Hosts Prophetic Conference

The public is invited to a Prophetic Conference at Lewisburg Bible Church, 311 Hospital Drive, Sunday, April 14 through Wednesday, April 17. The guest Speaker, Mitch Triestman from Friends of Israel will speak on Sunday at the 10:30 AM service on "The Great White Throne from Revelation 20:11-15. At the Sunday evening service at 7:00 PM his message will be "The End of the Middle East Crisis". The services will continue each evening at 7:00 PM with Power Point Presentations: Monday - 10 Prophetic "P's"; Tuesday - "The Prophecy in the Feasts of the Lord"; and Wednesday - "The Whirlwind" which is a look at the devastating storms that have hit our nation and our policies toward the land of Israel prior to the storms.

Mitch Triestman is serving the Lord with the Friends of Israel Gospel ministry. Mitch received a Bachelors of Science degree in Bible from the Philadelphia College of Bible. After ten years of serving as the Philadelphia area director for the Chosen People Ministries, he returned to school at the Biblical Theological Seminary where he received a Masters degree in Bible. Mitch is the author of three books, the textbook "To the Jew First", an evangelistic Bible study book "Abraham the Committed Christian"; and a collection of sermons on Bible prophecy entitled "Are We There Yet?". He has also published a multitude of articles in magazines and journals.

Rev Triestman has been active in the field of Jewish Evangelism for more than thirty years. His experiences on the field and his study of the Scriptures from a Jewish perspective have made him a fascinating teacher. He has been a keynote speaker at numerous mission conferences. His extensive studies in the areas of Biblical prophecy and in Judaica make him an intriguing lecturer at a prophesy conference or in training on the feasts of Israel and Jewish customs in the Scriptures.

Lewisburg Bible Church is located approximately 1 mile behind Evangelical Hospital at 311 Hospital Drive. A warm welcome is extended by the Rev. Roger L. Wenger, Pastor.

Five Vehicle Accident Claims Life of One Driver

Prior to the accident, State Police at Milton received a phone call about a car traveling in the wrong direction on Route 15. By the time they were dispatched to the area it was too late. The accident had already happened.

On Sunday, March 31, at approximately 9 p.m. A 2009 Cadillac DTS driven by Edward Peace, 81, of Gorham, NY, was traveling south in the northbound lane of Route 15, in Kelly Township. All northbound traffic was stopped or coming to a stop at the traffic light at the intersection of Route 15 and AJK Blvd. Peace continued traveling in the wrong direction through the intersection at an accelerated rate of speed and sideswiped a 2004 Pontiac Vibe driven by Jeffrey M. Dichristopher, 30, of Cheektowaga, NY, that was in the left turning lane. Peace then struck a 2003 Toyota Matrix driven by Ellen Marie Kear, 35, of Turbotville, head-on and the impact of the collision pushed the rear of her vehicle into the front of a 2007 Subaru Outback driven by Amy A. Gallant, 55, of Wellsboro, PA. A 2009 Ford Edge driven by Terry P. Neuhard, 74, of Milton, attempted to avoid the wreckage and was struck by the fourth vehicle.

Kear was ejected from her vehicle and was pronounced dead at the scene by the Union County Coroner. Peace sustained moderate injuries. He was treated and released from Evangelical Community Hospital. No other injuries were reported.

It is not known at this time if Peace will face charges in the accident.

PA Dutch Life & Culture

These folks had ingenious ways of creating colored fabrics. I'm amazed at what they did when I see the old fabrics. Here are some instructions for making green dye.

Green:
 Take a copper kettle full of clear water, enough to handle your goods in. Then take a 1/2 pound Black Oak bark (ground as the tanners use it) To every pound of goods put the bark in a "cours" bag and throw it in the water and boil it one hour then take the bag with the bark out if your water has boiled away too much you can fill it up with clear water.

Then put 2 ounces Allum in your bark water and let it dissolve. Then put about 1 ounce of Blue from the Tin Box in the water or yellow dye, then stir it right well, and your water will look Green.

Now put your goods in and work it and work it for 20 minutes, if not green enough, take your goods out and put more of the blue in and work your goods again. Your water need not boil after the bark is boiled out, but keep it near boiling, make your goods wet and "rinse" it out before you dry it.

We call that blueing or Chimic Blue in the tin box. And I assume this is for wallpapering:

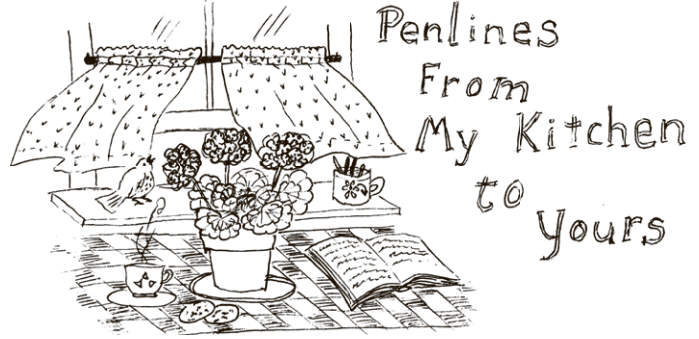

Paste:
 2 cups cold water
 2 cups flour
 3 to 5 cups boiling water
 1 teaspoon alum
 1 teaspoon formaldehyde
 Cloves or peppermint

Gradually add boiling water to cold water and flour and boil until smooth and thick. Add alum and formaldehyde; then cloves or peppermint.

And another interesting saying:
 "If you make a wish and keep it to yourself before eating the first fruits of the season, your wish will come true." I'd never heard that one before.

(Used with permission from The Boyertown Area Cookbook.)

Well, I hope spring is finally here. Have you planted any early season vegetables yet? I'd like to get a few in that will produce before we leave for China. One problem we have is that the deer here like the vegetables also. Do you know how to keep them from eating the plants? Let me know! We are a community service organization providing instruction to adults in the Susquehanna Valley who are functionally illiterate in the English language. Reading Partners is strictly a volunteer organization comprised of trained volunteers who give three hours a week to help a neighbor improve his/her life through better reading and writing skills.
 As a volunteer, you can open doors to people who only dream of the opportunities reading has offered you. You will not only affect the life of your student, but the course of his or her family as well.
 We will train you to be an effective tutor, give you the materials you'll need, and always be there with the support you expect.

language he used in the post-race interview. In this year alone, the sanctioning body has already suspended Nationwide Series driver Jeremy Clements for inappropriate comments he made in an off-the-record conversation, and it fined Denny Hamlin $25,000 three weeks ago for saying the Generation-6 car didn't race well.

Kyle Larson, the 20-year-old Japanese-American driver has turned out to be one of the biggest surprises in this year's Nationwide Series. After battling Kyle Busch to the finish line two weeks ago at Bristol, he is 7th in points.

That's quite an achievement for such a young driver. In Larson's first four races of the 2013 season, also the first of his NASCAR Nationwide career, he opened the season with a pair of 13th-place finishes at Daytona and Phoenix followed by a 32nd-place finish at Las Vegas after an accident ended his day 18 laps shy of the scheduled 200.

His runner-up finish at Bristol moved Larson up five positions in the standings and has some considering him as a possible dark horse in the championship race. The way in which he raced Busch in the closing laps drew praise from the driver of the No. 54 Toyota and opened a lot of eyes throughout the garage.

"You know, you know, I just want go out there and win more races, really," said Larson. "I don't usually worry too much about points races, so this year was kind of a shocker to me that I was up there in the points just because it seems like my driving style is more of a go out there and try and win races. Just keep on winning races and running up front, and if I run for points again in something, it would be nice to win a championship."

Larson was signed for the 2012 racing season by Earnhardt Ganassi Racing (EGR) as part of the team's driver development program. In February 2012, at the Pete Orr Memorial Orange Blossom 100 at New Smyrna Speedway, Larson made his first start in a full-bodied stock car, and won the event, leading only the final lap of the race. He won again at the speedway a week later during the World Series of Asphalt.

Expect to see and hear more about this young driver. HAMLIN OUT SIX WEEKS Denny Hamlin will miss at least five races as he recovers from a compression fracture in his lower back suffered in a crash March 17 at California Speedway.

The Joe Gibbs Racing driver visited neurosurgeon Dr. Jerry Petty last week, and Petty determined that Hamlin would not need surgery but would need an "estimated around six weeks time" to heal, according to a JGR news release.

The main factors in determining when Hamlin can race will be his ability to work the pedals, the potential for a more serious injury if he is involved in another crash, and his pain threshold since NASCAR's substance-abuse policy restricts the amount of painkillers Hamlin can have in his system.

"This one is tough because it's your core, it's the whole centerpiece of your body that really takes a lot of (G-forces) and things like that anyway," Hamlin told reporters when he left the hospital Monday.

"I just don't know how my body will react to being in a car, and obviously we've got some obstacles just as far as getting in the car with the bracing I need. There's no way at this point I could get in a car with no bracing. ... If we don't do surgery, you do have a fracture, so I don't want to make it worse. It's not worth that."

Hamlin is the second title contender in less than a year to have to miss races because of injury. Dale Earnhardt Jr. missed two races in the Chase last year after suffering two concussions within six weeks.

Missing at least five races will likely end Hamlin's Chase hopes because he does not have a victory in the first five races of this season and will fall out of the top-10 in the standings following Martinsville.

After 26 races, the top-10 drivers plus the two drivers in 11th to 20th place with the most wins make the Chase. That means a driver can miss races, but no more than three or four, and still make the Chase.

Hamlin has not missed a Cup race since he stepped into the seat of the No. 11 car with seven races left in the 2005 season, a streak of 264 races that will come to an end at Martinsville.

Mark Martin will fill in for Hamlin next weekend at Martinsville Speedway. Martin will return to the No. 55 Aaron's Dream Machine Toyota at Texas Motor Speedway on April 13 and resume his previously scheduled run of events with MWR for the remainder of the 2013 NASCAR Sprint cup season.

DOUBLE STANDARD FOR STEWART Tony Stewart talks out of both sides of his mouth. Usually, his left hand doesn't know what the right one is doing.

Joey Logano did what just about any driver would have done Sunday when he blocked Tony Stewart on the final restart to keep Stewart from taking the lead. Stewart took exception and tried to start a fight after the race, even though he's done the same thing several times in the past.

I recall that Stewart intentionally crashed Brian Vickers in 2011 at Sonoma after Vickers blocked him earlier in the race.

Still, Stewart thought Logano's actions at California Speedway were completely unacceptable.

"That little &#$@ runs us clear down to the infield," Stewart said. "He wants to $%&! about everybody else; he's the one that drives like a little &*?@!. I'm going to bust his a--."

Whether or not Stewart actually comes through on that threat is debatable, but NASCAR could've fined him for the

SBDC to host networking event May 2

The Small Business Development Center (SBDC) at Bucknell University will host the networking event, "Borrower-Lender Matchmaking," Thursday, May 2, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Col. John Kelly Room of the Country Cupboard in Lewisburg.

The event, which is free and open to the public, is co-hosted by the Lock Haven and Penn State SBDCs.

During the event fashioned after 'speed dating' events, entrepreneurs and small-business owners will have 15-minute sessions to pitch their financing needs to a variety of lenders. Potential borrowers will have access to free and confidential SBDC consulting and business planning assistance to prepare their pitch and materials. Lenders can then schedule follow-up interviews with entrepreneurs whose proposals align with their portfolio.

Lenders include First National Bank of PA, M&T, Swineford National Bank, Jersey Shore State Bank, West Milton State Bank, Service 1st Federal Credit Union, KLM Financial Services and others.

Entrepreneurs and business owners are invited to meet with regional commercial loan officers to discuss loans for business acquisitions, working capital, business expansion, refinancing, machinery and equipment, facility purchases, business start-ups, franchises and lines of credit.

Registration is suggested as seating is limited. To register online, visit <http://www.bucknell.edu/sbdevents>; call the SBDC at 570-577-1249; or email SBDC@bucknell.edu.

Important Information For Medicare Beneficiaries in Universal Health Care Plans in Pennsylvania

Medicare ensures no interruption in services as UHC and UHIC plans terminate

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) will ensure continuous medical and prescription drug coverage for beneficiaries enrolled in Universal Health Care Medicare health plans that are terminating April 1st. These Medicare Advantage contracts were sponsored by Florida-based Universal Health Care, Inc. (UHC) and Universal Health Care Insurance Company, Inc. (UHIC). UHC and UHIC were ordered into receivership for purposes of rehabilitation and liquidation by the Second Judicial Circuit Court in Tallahassee, Florida. The Florida Department of Financial Services is the Court appointed Receiver of both UHC and UHIC. In Pennsylvania, UHC serves 2,893 Medicare beneficiaries.

CMS is working to ensure that all affected beneficiaries are able to access needed medical providers and facilities and that those beneficiaries with current prescription drug coverage experience no break or gap in drug coverage. CMS is committed to providing Medicare beneficiaries with high value health care and ensuring that Medicare beneficiaries are adequately protected during this transition.

What will happen now:

Beneficiaries currently enrolled in UHIC will not experience a gap in their Medicare coverage. Effective April 1, 2013, CMS will automatically enroll beneficiaries who are currently UHIC enrollees in Original Medicare through which they will be able to obtain Original Medicare (Part A and B) coverage. Those beneficiaries who also currently have prescription drug coverage through UHIC will be enrolled into a comparable Prescription Drug Plan, either Coventry Health Care, Inc., or Envision Insurance Company. Beneficiaries can learn which Prescription Drug Plan they are enrolled in by contacting 1-800-MEDICARE.

Beneficiaries impacted by the contract termination will receive a notice in the mail explaining the changes in coverage and providing information about their new prescription drug coverage. They will also receive a letter from their new prescription drug plan. Beneficiaries will be able to continue to see their current primary and specialty care providers under Original Medicare. Those currently in the hospital or receiving skilled nursing care or other medical treatments will continue with such care without interruption.

Other options open to beneficiaries:

Affected beneficiaries can choose to enroll in another Medicare Advantage or Prescription Drug Plan, if they do not want to remain in Original Medicare or the newly assigned PDP. They have been granted a special election period during which they may make one change in their Medicare health care and prescription drug plan coverage. This special election period is in effect now through May 31, 2013. Coverage in the new plan is effective the first of the month following their plan selection. If a beneficiary calls 1-800-MEDICARE by March 31 and enrolls in a plan, the beneficiary's coverage in the plan will be effective on April 1.

Resources for Medicare beneficiaries:

Beneficiaries and their caregivers can call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227; TTY: 1-877-486-2048) if they have difficulty accessing care or wish to enroll in a Medicare Advantage plan or a different Prescription Drug Plan.

For more information about coverage options, including special rights to purchase a Medigap policy and assistance paying Medicare premiums, deductibles and coinsurance, please contact the Pennsylvania APPRISE program at (800) 783-7067 or (717) 783-8975.

Audobon Book Donation

Seven Mountains Audubon recently donated a copy of the Second Atlas of Breeding Birds in Pennsylvania to The Public Library for Union County. The book features information about birds that nest in Pennsylvania as well as the distribution change over the past 20 years. With data compiled by over 2,000 volunteers, this book includes extensive maps and colorful photos-most of which were taken in Pennsylvania. According to Allen and Joanne Schweinsberg of the Seven Mountains Audubon, the book promotes science, conservation, and encourages an interest in wildlife. They are pictured with Melanie Weber, head of adult services for the library.
